ALL-COLLEGE HONORS PROGRAM

Director: Bruce J. Dierenfield, PhD

Introduction
The All-College Honors Program is a learning community of excellent and motivated students who take interdisciplinary courses and enjoy abundant opportunities for social interaction and cultural enrichment. Because the Honors Program replaces the entire core curriculum, Honors students need not take any regular core courses or fulfill any core requirements. All majors can complete Honors, and even triple majors have done so. Please see the Honors website for a more detailed description of the Honors Program and its faculty, facilities, and academic, co-curricular, and cultural opportunities at the All-College Honors’ website (https://www.canisius.edu/academics/office-academic-affairs/all-college-honors-program).

Qualifications
Admission to the All-College Honors Program is open to entering first-year students with strong academic records and to well-qualified transfer students who seek permission from the Honors director.

Advisement
All-College Honors students should see the Honors director regarding advisement questions.

Program Experiences
Many Honors courses are supported with a variety of co-curricular activities. Examples include visiting museums, art galleries, and houses of worship; attending cultural performances; sight-seeing places of historic significance; and dining at faculty homes or area coffeehouses.

The Honors Program and the Honors Student Association sponsor many different events, including a freshman orientation book discussion and cookout, an off-campus retreat, a luncheon series with community leaders, a book club, a film series, snow tubing and skating, lectures by nationally-known professors, jazz and orchestral concerts, visits to museums and sports arenas, ice cream socials, a 60-second talks program, a Thanksgiving dinner, a Christmas party, an Easter egg hunt, an annual banquet, and trips to major cities. The digital Honors Post Journal publicizes and promotes these events.

In addition, many Honors students participate in community service projects, including a soup kitchen and an after-school program to feed and tutor disadvantaged children.

Total Credits 36

One of these Honors courses must focus on the American experience, and another must address diversity or global understanding.

Typically, Honors freshmen complete Honors English (HON 101) and Western Tradition (HON 110 and HON 111) in their first year. First-year Biology majors have room for only one of these courses in their first semester (usually HON 101) and another of them in the second semester (usually HON 111). If their schedule permits, Honors students may take additional Honors coursework, though only juniors and seniors may take Honors thesis (HON 451). Except for Honors thesis, the course number does not indicate the level of difficulty.

Most Honors students must also complete two non-Honors courses in another language (ancient, modern, or sign), unless they receive AP credit or have satisfactorily completed college-level foreign language coursework. International students whose native language is not English are exempt from this requirement.

Additional Course Considerations
Honors students may receive Honors credit for some qualifying Advanced Placement or International Baccalaureate scores, though there are no exemptions for Honors English or Western Tradition. It may also be possible for college credit obtained elsewhere to be accepted in the Honors Program. The decision as to what outside credit the Honors Program can accept rests with the Honors director. Honors students are encouraged to study abroad and receive up to six hours of Honors credit for doing so.

Note: To graduate with All-College Honors distinction, students must receive credit for all twelve Honors courses taken and two courses in the same foreign language, and have an overall GPA of 3.25 in all Canisius courses.

HON 110 Western Tradition I 3 Credits
Introduces students to significant intellectual and material elements of Western Civilization from the Ancient World through the Middle Ages. Through an interdisciplinary approach, this course investigates the presumptions, motivations, and expectations of westerners in order to ascertain what is peculiarly 'western' about the world in which we live and think.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: fall.

HON 111 Western Tradition II 3 Credits
Introduces students to significant intellectual and material elements of Western Civilization since the Renaissance. Through an interdisciplinary approach, this course investigates the presumptions, motivations, and expectations of westerners in order to ascertain what is peculiarly 'western' about the world in which we live and think. HON 110 is not a prerequisite.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: spring only.

HON 105 Disease, Health, and Medicine in America 3 Credits
This interdisciplinary course traces the history of disease, health, and medicine from Columbus' deadly times to the current threats of a Zika epidemic, lead poisoning from contaminated water, and Buffalo's heroin crisis. Students will learn about modern medical miracles and horrifying medical experiments, visit the Museum of disABILITY History, conduct research on an area of personal interest, and hear from an addiction expert. The theory behind this course is that we define and treat disease reflects contemporary historical events and our social and cultural values, as well as existing science, education, economics, and technology. Fulfills either the History, Science/Math/Tech, or Social Science requirement in Honors. It also fulfills the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: summer.

HON 108 The Rise, Fall, & Rebirth of Buffalo 3 Credits
This interdisciplinary course focuses on the rich history, architecture, and culture of Buffalo, New York, known as the Queen City of the Lakes and the City of No Illusions. Through a Place as Text approach, we will visit architectural gems by Sullivan, Richardson, Wright, and Green; Millionaires' Row on Delaware Ave.; organized crime sites; the Colored Musicians' Club; and Buffalo's revived waterfront. Fulfills either the History or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: summer.

HON 101 Honors English 3 Credits
Various literary genres. Works by writers representing a wide variety of places, times, nationalities, and philosophies. Student's writing refined through these readings and composition assignments.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: fall.

Learning Goals & Objectives

Student Learning Goal 1
Honors students will demonstrate academic maturity.
Students will:
• Objective A: Take the lead in researching and writing the thesis;
• Objective B: Incorporate suggestions made by the thesis adviser;
• Objective C: Meet thesis deadlines.

Student Learning Goal 2
Honors students will exhibit strong critical thinking skills.
Students will:
• Objective A: Identify salient arguments in the literature;
• Objective B: Gather, select, and organize credible evidence in crafting the thesis;
• Objective C: Draw warranted conclusions from the evidence presented;
• Objective D: Generate new ideas based on their research.

Student Learning Goal 3
Honors students will follow appropriate writing conventions.
Students will:
• Objective A: Write the thesis in a clear and concise style;
• Objective B: Avoid most mechanical mistakes in writing the thesis;
• Objective C: Use an appropriate form of documentation in presenting the thesis.

Student Learning Goal 4
Honors students will operate in an intellectually honest fashion.
Students will:
Objective A: Formally acknowledge all borrowed information and ideas in the thesis.

1 Biology majors take this class in the fall of the sophomore year
2 Biology majors generally take 2 courses in the fall of the sophomore year, including HON 110

Corequisite: None.
Prerequisite: None.
HON 212 Beauty Matters: Philosophical Considerations of Beauty from Ancient Times to the Present Day
This course examines the nature and importance of beauty as an aesthetic principle and as a source of value for our lives. The course covers issues of beauty and the sublime in ancient and early modern times, but focuses on philosophical readings that focus on different aesthetic characterizations of music and various debates that have followed philosophical theories in formalism and expression accounts. While the debates often originated in eras before the popular music of the 20th century, students are encouraged to apply these views to the wide range of their personal listening habits and to share them with the group. The second half will explore philosophical readings on film and delve into common debates in which philosophers have engaged regarding contemporary film, including questions about its nature, whether films have authors, how film engages our emotions, and what relationship film has to ethics, criticism, and knowledge. Fulfills either the Philosophy or Fine Arts requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 213 Debating Dinner: The Philosophy of Eating
This course explores the complex relationships involved in the food that we eat every day. We will examine a variety of issues that circle around food, including consumer ethics, a troubling food system, global hunger, obesity and public health, plant and animal industrial agriculture, and food workers.
Restrictions: Honors Program.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 214 Sights & Sounds: Philosophy, Music, Film
An introduction to the philosophy of music and to the philosophy of film. Students need have no special knowledge of music or film, but should have an interest in listening to music and watching film. The first half of the course will explore philosophical readings that focus on different aesthetic characterizations of music and various debates that have followed philosophical theories in formalism and expression accounts. While the debates often originated in eras before the popular music of the 20th century, students are encouraged to apply these views to the wide range of their personal listening habits and to share them with the group. The second half will explore philosophical readings on film and delve into common debates in which philosophers have engaged regarding contemporary film, including questions about its nature, whether films have authors, how film engages our emotions, and what relationship film has to ethics, criticism, and knowledge. Fulfills either the Philosophy or Fine Arts requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 215 Death and Dying
This course offers an opportunity for reflective examination of death and dying. We all are going to die, but many of us prefer not to think about it. This course tries to rectify that circumstance by considering the following questions: what is death? What does it mean to die well or to obtain a good death? Is death bad for the person who dies? Is it possible and/or desirable to defeat death? Is an immortal life a good human life? How should human beings view death? How can we best honor and remember the dead? What makes killing “wrong” in cases such as abortion, euthanasia, or suicide? This course will lean heavily on philosophy, but will be fundamentally interdisciplinary, drawing on sociology, psychology, theology, and the natural sciences.

HON 216 Honors Philosophy
Selected topics in philosophical inquiry, such as rationalism, empiricism, epistemology or metaphysics. Fulfills the Philosophy requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 217 Cities, Suburbs, and Spaces
This course examines the "built" environment of human beings, such as parks, bedrooms, churches, sidewalks, streets, and transportation systems, in order to determine what kinds of cities, suburbs, and spaces can best contribute to human flourishing. Fulfills the Philosophy or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 218 Intellectual History of the West
This course takes a historical approach to introduce the main ideas of the principal philosophers and thinkers of Western civilization from the beginnings in ancient Greece to the 20th century. Fulfills either the History or Philosophy requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 219 Revolutions of the West
This new interdisciplinary course treats the political philosophy and patterns of the four main revolutions in the West, namely, the French Revolution (1789-1799) and its legacy, the Mexican Revolution (1910-1920), the Russian Revolution (1917), and the Cuban Revolution (1953-1959). We will also examine the views of seminal thinkers whose writings inspired these revolutions, including John Locke, Jean Jacques Rousseau, Karl Marx, and Vladimir Lenin. The nature of revolutions and the profound social and cultural changes wrought by these pivotal upheavals will also be considered. Fulfills either the History, Philosophy, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness attribute.
Offered: Occasional.

HON 220 From Asylums to Acceptance: The “Disabled” in America
This new Honors class is an interdisciplinary introduction to the history, laws and institutions; science, health, and technology; culture and attitudes of and toward those deemed “disabled.” We will look at the medical impairments defined as “disabilities” or “handicaps” over time, considering changing definitions and the discovery of new “mental illnesses” and treatments, in particular. This course is also organized around the concept of disability as a social construct which identifies the systemic barriers, negative attitudes, and exclusions by society as major contributing factors to the disabling of people. Students can expect an overview of major themes, events, individuals, policy and scientific developments, as well as political and social activism of, by, and for people with disabilities. Students will be challenged to revise and expand their views of diversity, justice, ethics, civil rights, and even their vocabulary to include the “differentlyabled” - ideally becoming models or agents for change. Specific topics will range from “lunatic asylums,” neuroathetic women, eugenics, and lobotomies to the ADA, St. Mary’s School for the Deaf, disability reformers, and computerized prosthetics. Learning will come from a variety of sources and methods built around seminar style discussion of primary and secondary documents and oral research presentations plus lectures, film/videos, a service animal trainer presentation, and a tour of Buffalo’s Museum of DisAbility History.
Restrictions: Honors students only, or by permission of the program director.
Offered: every other fall.
HON 222 History & Literature of the American Civil War 3 Credits
This course will study the various historical reasons for the Civil War, including the social, cultural, and political contexts of 19th-century America, and the literature it produced. We will compare celebrated works, such as Uncle Tom's Cabin, with lesser-known authors, and question if the 'real war' is indeed in these books. Fulfills either the History or Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: once a year.

HON 223 Religion, Politics, & the Presidency 3 Credits
This course will begin with the Puritan notion of American exceptionalism, and then turn to the religious thinking of the Founding Fathers who drafted the First Amendment. Among other topics, the course will look at several presidential elections, the adoption of religious motifs, the rise of conservative religious groups that promoted political action, and the debate over hot-button issues, such as immigration, school prayer, abortion, and same-sex marriage. Anticipated class activities include an election night party. Fulfills either the History, Religious Studies, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 224 Disease, Health, and Medicine in America 3 Credits
Treats life and death issues--literally--from the deadly smallpox brought by Columbus to the bio-terrorism of today. The theory of this course is that the way Americans define and treat disease reflects contemporary historical events and our social and cultural values, as well as the existing science, education and technology. Fulfills either the History, Science/Math/Technology, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: once a year.

HON 226 African-American Lives & Culture 3 Credits
This interdisciplinary course will focus on the lives of representative African Americans; consider several aspects of African-American culture, including history, literature, religion and music; and provide co-curricular opportunities. The course will conclude with a consideration of the claim that America has become a post-racial society. Fulfills either the History, Religious Studies, Literature, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 227 Vices and Addictions in American Society 3 Credits
Explains and analyzes the impact of vices and addictions on American daily life and leisure, disease and treatment, the economy, government policies, and reform crusades. Some of the bad habits and addictions to be considered include tobacco, alcohol, marijuana and cocaine, prescribed drugs, coffee, chocolate, and sports betting. Fulfills either the History, Science/Math/Technology, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: once a year.

HON 228 All-College Honors Program 3 Credits
This course will begin with the 1948 United Nations declaration on genocide and, based on that document, will examine the many ways in which genocide was inflicted upon the indigenous peoples of the Americas, especially the Indians of North America. It will examine the nature and scope of the atrocities that were employed to carry out that genocide. It will also explore how race, religion, and sex contribute to genocide. Finally, it will examine the continuation of genocidal policies by the U.S. government and the long-lasting effects of those policies across generations to the present. Fulfills the History requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience or Diversity/Global Awareness attribute.
Offered: Occasionally.

HON 231 War & Peace since 9/11 3 Credits
In exploring the nature of world politics and American foreign policy since 9/11, this course focuses on what the United States must do to maintain its traditional reserves of 'hard' and 'soft' power in an age of globalization and terrorism. Fulfills the Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 232 American Government: The User Guide 3 Credits
Politics matters. It will significantly impact everyone, regardless of career path. This course will provide the basic tools that students will need to comprehend and effectively participate in American government. Topics will include the three branches of government, American federalism, elections, civil rights, civil liberties, taxes, and budgets. Fulfills the Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 236 Identity and Power 3 Credits
This course is designed to provide students with a theoretical foundation in examining everyday experiences of people by putting social forms of identity (gender, sexual, racial, ethnic, class, nation, etc.) and power at the center of the discussion. The aim of the course is to encourage students to develop the analytical skills needed to think critically about the relationship between social identity and power. After introducing students to the key concepts and critical theories of ‘power’ and ‘ideology’, the historical processes of colonialism, imperialism and (and ideology) of capitalism will be discussed to establish the background for further class discussions. The seminars will then encourage students to engage in critical dialogues about racial, ethnic, religious, class, nation, gender, and sexual identities and how these identities influence the social positioning of individuals/groups and produce issues of social stratification, conflict, and inequality. The students will examine the ways in which these aspects of identity are socially reproduced, transformed and re-interpreted, both historically and contemporarily. Fulfills Social Science requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 238 The American Presidency 3 Credits
Fulfills the Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.
HON 241 History of Judaism

3 Credits
An introduction to the history, religion, and literature of Judaism from the ancient world to the present. Fulfills either the Religious Studies or History requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 242 Cultural Constructions of Jesus

3 Credits
We will examine the various presentations of Jesus that have occurred in different historical and cultural contexts, beginning with the canonical Gospels. The course concludes with a survey of modern interpretations of Jesus: the American Jesus; the Jesus of Latin America, Asia, and Africa; and Jesus in modern literature and film. Fulfills the Religious Studies requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 245 Homeric Epic

3 Credits
This course seeks to examine a series of questions prompted by Homer’s Iliad and Odyssey and look at the broader consequences of those responses from antiquity to the present. It will also introduce the history and language of ancient Greece. No prior knowledge of Greek is required. Fulfills either the History or Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement. In addition, this course counts as one of the two required courses in foreign language.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 246 American Religions

3 Credits
This course considers the history of American religions from pre-contact times to the present. It focuses on the evolution of religious faiths and religious ideologies as varying groups came into contact with one another, splintered off into new faith communities, and founded completely original systems of religious belief. Fulfills either the History or Religious Studies requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience or Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 247 Islam: Religion, History, and Culture

3 Credits
A study of Islamic scriptures, Muslim cultures, social institutions, religious practices, and Muslim and Western writings to better understand Islam and Muslims in the U.S. and throughout the world. Fulfills either the Religious Studies, History, or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 248 Religions of the East

3 Credits
In this class, we will survey some of the major religious traditions of East and South Asia, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, and Daoism. Particular attention is placed on historical and contemporary beliefs, practices, texts, and cultures, as well as their changes over time. Fulfills either the Religious Studies or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 249 Magic, Science, and Religion

3 Credits
This course will consider diverse ways in which world cultures conceive, make use of, and tap into the realms of the extra-human. We will focus not only on ‘exotic’ societies and peoples, but also explore the meanings of magic, science and religion in more familiar contemporary North America. Fulfills either the Religious Studies or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 250 Caesar & Christ

3 Credits
This course studies the early days of biography as a genre of Greek & Latin literature and its association with imperial and religious power. The course seeks to examine the characteristics of classical lives and Christian hagiography and to consider their influence on modern biography. Since biography generally places the character sketch within a chronological narrative, the course will examine the history of the Roman Empire, early Christendom, and the earliest days of the Holy Roman Empire, with particular focus on the developing struggle between secular and religious authority. The course will also introduce students to the Latin language. Fulfills either the History or Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement. In addition, this course counts as one of the two required courses in a foreign language.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 252 Plantations, Ghettos, Prisons: The Black Experience in America

3 Credits
To a large degree, the black experience in America has been one of confinement. This new interdisciplinary Honors course will look at why and how African Americans were confined physically, as well as some of the many effects resulting from such enforced confinement. We will consider “enslavement” in three successive incarnations, beginning in the 18th century and lasting until today, i.e., southern plantations, northern ghettos, and mass incarceration. We will also look at ways in which African Americans resisted such confinement—turning to religion, making music, composing literature, and organizing protest—and the consequences of resisting the limited world that whites had constructed for them. Among other topics, we will look at the brutality of the slave system, the formation & maintenance of the ghetto, the “long” civil rights movement, black nationalism, the Black Panthers, the Black Arts Movement, police shootings, and the Black Lives Matter movement.

Restrictions: All-College Honors Program students only, or by permission of the program director.

Offered: every third year.

HON 255 The Buffalo Experience

3 Credits
This interdisciplinary course will focus on the history, architecture, and culture of Buffalo, New York, known variously as the ‘Queen City of the Lakes’ and the ‘City of No Illusions.’ There will be walking tours and cultural experiences to supplement classwork. Fulfills either the History, Social Science, or Religious Studies requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.

Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.

Offered: occasionally.

HON 347 Mathematics: Patterns, Problems, & Puzzles 3 Credits
Mathematical problems and puzzles can often be solved by investigating underlying patterns. This course analyzes such patterns in the mathematical fields of number theory, geometry (2D & 3D), and logic. The history of the mathematics (and the mathematicians) involved with these patterns, problems and puzzles will also be explored. Fulfills the Science/Math/Tech requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 350 The Theory of Almost Everything 3 Credits
Will develop an understanding of the state of modern, fundamental physics so that students gain a conceptual idea about the unification of all physical laws, including gravity, electromagnetism, and nuclear forces. The course is set at a level of the general public, with the bulk of the readings being science popularization. Fulfills the Science/Math/Tech requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 351 Biology in Fiction and Film 3 Credits
This course will focus on biological concepts and themes as conveyed in novels, short stories, film, and television. Material and class discussions will feature both the science and cultural implications behind topics including evolution, ecology, human consciousness, genetics, disease, and gender/sexuality. Fulfills either the Fine Arts, Literature, or Science/Math/Tech requirement in Honors.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 352 Water and Society 3 Credits
From the ongoing drought in California to the toxic algae blooms in Lake Erie, the importance of clean freshwater is gripping the headlines. In this class, we will explore the science, history, and politics of water resources in the U.S. We will also explore the science behind the hydrology and environmental quality of freshwater systems, delve into the history and politics of Western water law, understand how past water distributions have complicated efforts to deal with the current drought, look at ongoing controversies involving water use in the Great Lakes, and explore how changes in technology and society may lead to the sustainable use of this most limiting resource. Fulfills either the Science/Math/Tech or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 354 Science in the 21st Century 3 Credits
Topics include the technology gap, global warming, genetically modified foods, alternative fuels, global food security and environmental stewardship. The seminar will explore the scientific underpinnings of the scientific discussions of our time, focusing on science fact, societal needs (nutrition), environmental concerns, population density, and global moral responsibility. Students will read primary literature, watch media reports, and debate scientific topics. Fulfills either the Science/Math/Tech or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 356 Pope Francis: 21st-Century Thinker 3 Credits
Pope Francis’ recent visit to the U.S. revealed that he speaks to our times, as well as pointing us to the future. He embodies a new kind of religious life that is not locked into 20th-century Catholic issues like pre- and post-Vatican II. Likewise, he calls all people beyond the tired polarities of left vs. right wing, Western vs. non-Western, religious vs. spiritual, and so forth. To understand his theology and philosophy more deeply, we will consider Francis’ two formal documents as pope, i.e., his 2013 apostolic letter Evangelii Gaudium and his 2015 encyclical Laudato Si. We will also read his writings on spirituality and his fresh insights into the Ignatian way of life. Furthermore, we will see how his life story has shaped his message, via Austen Ivereigh’s detailed and highly regarded biography. Finally, we will appreciate how the world of art and popular culture have responded to this compelling and inspiring leader. Fulfills either the Religious Studies or Philosophy requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 363 The Bible & Popular Culture  3 Credits
This class will examine pop culture references to the Bible, including those found in art, music, literature, television, film, and social media. We will critique these uses of the Bible and attempt to sort out their implications. Fulfills either the Religious Studies or Social Science requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 364 Living Religions in Buffalo  3 Credits
Religious beliefs and practices play a significant role in the lives of many people around the world. Religious differences have also led to conflicts and problems. In this class, we will explore world religions through encounters with members of religious communities present in Buffalo.

HON 370 Life-Writing: The Art of Biography  3 Credits
This course will introduce students to classics in the genre of biography from the ancient world to the present, and explore the fundamental theoretical issues underlying the writing and reading of lives. Students will write both as critics and as biography. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 371 From Argonaut to Avenger, Son of God to Superhero: Religion, Myth, and the Evolution of the Hero  3 Credits
This new interdisciplinary Honors course will examine the mythic and religious traditions of the heroes of the Ancient Near East, Greece, and Rome, and their continuing influence upon the themes and motifs found in the “super” heroes of the comic book age. The course will thus chart the cultural transformation of the idea of the “hero” from a religiously venerated human, to its contemporary association with fictional costumed crime-fighters.
Restrictions: All-College Honors Program students only, or by permission of the program director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 373 Living Writers  3 Credits
An examination of contemporary literature written by published authors who will visit our class. We will pay special attention to how assigned books reflect and respond to particular contemporary realities, such as the trauma of war, cultural upheaval, spiritual crisis, racial tension, and the challenge of achieving intimacy in a technological world. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 374 A Novel Nation: American Literature & Philosophy in the 19th Century  3 Credits
This team-taught course will explore major 19th-century American literary and philosophical movements, including romanticism, transcendentalism, sentimentalism, pragmatism, and realism. We will read a range of different genres, from essays, poems, novels, short stories, slave narratives, and memoirs, and see how literature and philosophy complement each other as disciplines and how they differ. Fulfills either the Literature or Philosophy requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 377 Remodeling Old Texts  3 Credits
This course will explore the phenomenon of adapting classic literary narratives to modern sensibilities in order to consider contemporary issues. More than simply ‘updating’ classic texts, these remodelings of texts attempt to elicit deeper understandings to give voice to marginalized characters, or to highlight truths embedded within the texts. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 381 Contemporary Literary Movements  3 Credits
We will examine four major literary movements of the last half of the 20th century, i.e., the Beat Generation, the Latin American Boom, Ethnic Minority literature, and Gay & Lesbian writing, focusing on two major writers from each movement. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience or Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.
HON 382 Detective Fiction 3 Credits
Explores how detective fiction has evolved in various social, political, cultural, historical, and linguistic contexts from its American and British origins to a more global context. The course examines how the genre functions as social commentary in these contexts. Students will address various topics, especially the relationship that different cultures, societies, ethnicities, and other groups have toward the law and justice, which is distinctly different from Anglo-American jurisprudence. They will also explore how the social, cultural, and political realities of the American South and Southwest, Italy, Spain, the Caribbean, and Latin America, and their often repressive and violent histories, make detective fiction in these locales somewhat different than that experienced in mainstream markets in the U.S. and the UK. By studying theoretical perspectives, students will enhance their skills in literary analysis. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience or Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 383 Rock & Roll and Literature 3 Credits
In this seminar, we will look at the literature of Rock & Roll—fiction, poetry, memoir, and journalism—that addresses one of America's most loved musical forms. While our study will not be limited to American writing, we will explore the ways that Rock & Roll is particularly American. What exactly does Rock & roll bring to th elistener, and is that more than just music? We will consider the ways in which Rock & roll acts as a destructive and redemptive force, and the ways it interacts with gender and cultural identity. We will look at the "revolutionary spirtiy of rock and roll," as Patti Smith called it, and how it has been both a catalyst of change and a sign of it. We will be listening, too. Each work will have a soundtrack, so we will read the books in the context of their songs. As for writing assignments, students will produce analytical essays and other styles of writing about music. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience attribute.
Offered: Occasional.

HON 384 American Immigrant Voices 3 Credits
In this literature course, we will explore contemporary American immigrant voices in fiction and poetry. We will look to answer several questions: What are the themes and preoccupations of contemporary American literature by and about immigrants? What similarities and differences might we see in the stories from writers who come from different countries? How is literature written by immigrants in America changing? What role do immigrant voices play in American literature as a whole? Selections from Junot Diaz, Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, NoViolet Bulawayo, and Cohn Toibin. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience or Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 385 Modern Myths and Fairy Tales 3 Credits
Students will explore the continuing influence of fairy tales and Greek and Roman myths on contemporary literature. In addition, we will consider the cultural contexts of the initial versions of the stories and their more recent retellings, and we will analyze the works from several critical standpoints, including historical and feminist. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the Diversity/Global Awareness requirement.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 386 Rise of the American Novel 3 Credits
A study of the phenomenon of the American novel and its many characteristics and we will question the construction of a linear narrative of the novel's rise. Since the first American novel appeared in the same month as the nation's Constitution, we will look closely at the complex relationship between the novel and the nation. We will approach the novel as the place where American authors worked out and displayed their hopes and fears for the young republic. Thus, we will examine how authors use their novels to construct a national identity; to negotiate anxieties regarding who should and should not rule; to comment on the incorporation or exclusion of the non-English "other"; and to create proper gender, racial, and class rules for its new citizens. Restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 388 Major American Writers 3 Credits
This new course will serve as a general introduction to major American writers from colonial times to the present. As such, this course will be loosely organized around the theme of freedom, the quintessential myth of American identity. We will explore creative responses to the personal experience of oppression and resistance, particularly in relation to inequalities experienced because of race and gender. We will also examine the American experience in terms of religious and sexual freedom. The course will be particularly focused on what authors have to say about the nature of freedom, or its absence, and how to achieve it on an individual level. Fulfills the Literature requirement in Honors, as well as the American Experience attribute.
Offered: Occasional.

HON 389 Nation, Homeland, and Diaspora in Contemporary Middle East Film 3 Credits
This All-College Honors course seeks to introduce students to a wide range of contemporary (post-2000) films from the Middle East and North Africa. In this seminar we will analyze examples of twelve or thirteen feature films from these regions, paying particular attention to how filmmakers represent and comment on the social and political conditions that shape the lives of everyday people. Fulfills either the Fine Arts or Literature requirement in Honors.
Prerequisite: HON 101.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 393 Buffalo, a Literary City 3 Credits
Buffalo and its surrounding communities comprise one of the country's richest literary environments. Historically it shaped the lives and careers of Mark Twain and F. Scott Fitzgerald; over the last century, it gave a home to poets like Pulitzer Prize winner Carl Dennis, two-time Pulitzer nominee, National Book Award and Emmy Award winner Lucille Clifton, and influential modernists Robert Creeley and Charles Olson. Its outstanding prose writers include Joyce Carol Oates—long rumored to be a future Nobel Prize winner—historical fiction writer Lauren Belfer, young-adult author Connie Porter, Edgar Award winning mystery writer Gary Earl Ross, and journalist and memoirist Tim Ruskert. Join us for an examination of the work of the previously mentioned authors, along with some glimpses at the writing of several notable Canisius faculty and alums, writers for other media, and some of this area’s up-and-coming literary artists.
HON 430 Tutorial 3 Credits
This course will be conducted as a tutorial in the Oxbridge (Oxford & Cambridge Universities) style, i.e., one or two students will meet with the instructor once weekly to discuss readings and write & revise papers. Interested students should contact the instructor for mutually agreeable topics.
Restriction: restricted to honors students or by permission of the honors director.
Offered: occasionally.

HON 451 Thesis 3 Credits
