Mission Statement
The faculty of the School of Education and Human Services (SEHS), in concert with our candidates, school/community partners, alumni, and the community, seek to prepare highly effective, socially committed professionals who value the Jesuit traditions demonstrated through their own cura personalis, work towards social justice, and leadership through service. The mission of the unit is to prepare professionals who possess content, pedagogical, and professional knowledge; use their gifts in the service of others; and demonstrate professionalism and leadership in their field.

Academic Programs
All teacher preparation programs in the School of Education and Human Services are accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP). Specific accredited programs include Athletic Training by the Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training Education (CAATE), and Counseling and Human Services by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP). All programs are registered and approved by the New York State Education Department.

The School of Education and Human Services offers curricula leading to undergraduate degrees in a number of areas.

The Teacher Education Department offers undergraduate degree/certification programs in childhood for a dual certification program in childhood education (1-6)/students with disabilities or childhood education (1-6)/teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL)(K-12). Each of these programs require candidates to select an academic concentration in one of seven disciplines: English, mathematics, science, social studies, music, Spanish, or social justice. Candidates enrolled in childhood education programs may elect to take two additional courses in middle childhood education and apply for an extension to teach in grades 7 through 9 for all concentrations except social justice, and science. Candidates enrolled in childhood education programs may also elect to take two additional courses in early childhood education to apply for certification to teach birth through grade 2.

Undergraduate degree programs in adolescence education lead to teacher certification (grades 7 through 12) in one of seven academic disciplines: biology, chemistry, physics, English, mathematics, social studies, and Spanish. Candidates enrolled in adolescence education programs may elect to take two additional courses in middle childhood education and apply for an extension to teach in grades 5 and 6.

The Department of Kinesiology offers undergraduate majors in health and wellness, sports and exercise health care, and sport management. Initial teacher certification programs are available in physical education, and a dual certification program in physical and health education. A Professional and Technical Studies undergraduate degree is also offered through the department.

The School of Education and Human Services offers a variety of master’s degrees in the departments of Counseling and Human Services (clinical mental health and school counseling), Graduate Education and Leadership (differentiated instruction, educational administration and leadership, educational technologies and emerging media, higher education and student affairs administration, literacy, and TESOL), Kinesiology (physical education, sport administration, sport product development, applied nutrition, community and school health, health and human performance, respiratory care), and Teacher Education (adolescence education, childhood education (1-6)/special education (1-6), childhood education (1-6)/TESOL (K-12), special education-advanced). These programs are described in the Graduate Catalog.

TEACHER EDUCATION CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK
Canisius’ teacher education programs focus on knowledge, service, leadership and professionalism, the foundational tenets of our conceptual framework. Academic programs offer candidates the content, pedagogical and professional knowledge, skills and dispositions necessary for quality performance in their field of study. Candidates will demonstrate the ability to reflect on their instructional practice, apply knowledge, exhibit skills and develop dispositions essential for success in P-12 schools. In coursework and in practice, candidates will display a clear understanding of the historical, philosophical, sociological, legal and psychological bases of education and educational policy. Candidates must be committed to the education of the whole person and to the belief that all individuals can learn. Within the contexts of their work, candidates promote authentic learning, social and emotional development and a commitment to service and social justice in environments that foster respect for diversity and the dignity of all.

Candidates are encouraged to participate in the urban community in which the college is located and, through a variety of field experiences and service-learning opportunities, to interact with an ethnically, racially, culturally, linguistically, religiously and intellectually diverse population. Collaborative projects allow candidates to learn from others, develop a professional orientation and assume positions of responsibility and leadership. Candidates develop the ability to reflect thoughtfully on their experience in order to guide professional development and to improve practice and are encouraged to join professional organizations and actively participate in professional conferences.

Central to our conceptual framework is a symbol of infinity, representing four interrelated and evolving characteristics: Knowledge, Service, Professionalism, and Leadership. These elements are situated within the overarching Ignatian vision and Jesuit educational principles. These values include:

- Cura personalis, concern for individuals, and desire to educate the whole person;
- Magis, or seeking the greater good, striving for excellence and desire to have our candidates reach one’s full potential;
- Sharing one’s gifts in the service for and with others in the pursuit of social justice;
- Contemplation in action, that is being a reflective learner & educator striving for ethical decision-making and mindful creative solutions to today's issues in Education.

To this end, with a vision of P-16 partnership, we strive to engage our students in their chosen field of study. As stated by Rev. Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, S.J., Superior General of the Society of Jesus (2000), “Students, in the course of their formation, must let the gritty reality of this world into their lives, so they can learn to feel it, think about it critically, respond to its suffering and engage it constructively” (p. 8).

Admission, Assessment and Continued Progress for Education Programs

Although coursework for all teacher certification programs normally begins in the freshman year, continued registration as a major is contingent upon several assessments. Performance is evaluated at four transition points, providing candidates with ongoing and integrated feedback on their progress. The four major transition points are:

1. Entrance into the program
2. Prior to clinical practice
3. After clinical practice
4. Program completion

Transition to each successive level requires successful performance on all measures described at the transition point. Performance measures include outcomes based on InTASC (Interstate Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium) principles, New York State teaching standards, the standards of specialized professional associations, and faculty expectations of knowledge, service, leadership and professionalism. The faculty review the progress of each candidate and, if deficits are noted, a plan is developed to address and remediate shortcomings. Candidates who consistently do not meet program expectations may be counseled out of or dismissed from the program.

Assessment at Transition Point 1 — Program Entrance:
- Acceptance to the college: Standardized test score; high school GPA

Assessment at Transition Point 2 — Prior to Clinical Practice:
Successful final portfolio review (specific program courses)
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or higher;
- Grade of C or higher in all education courses;
- Grade of C or higher in content courses for candidates seeking certification at the middle childhood or adolescence level;
- Satisfactory performance in field placements.

Assessment at Transition Point 3 — After Clinical Practice:
Successful final portfolio review
- Satisfactory integrated portfolio reflection;
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or higher;
- Grade of C or higher in all education courses;
- Grade of C or higher in content courses for candidates seeking certification at the middle childhood or adolescence level;
- Satisfactory performance in field experience II placements.

Assessment at Transition Point 4 — Program Completion:
- Cumulative GPA of 2.75 or higher
- Grade of C or higher in all education courses
- Grade of C or higher in content courses for candidates seeking certification at the middle childhood or adolescence level
- Successful completion of all program requirements

All candidates for teaching certification develop an assessment portfolio during their program of study. Specific common assignments from selected courses are compiled in Taskstream through which the candidate demonstrates successful performance according to the standards of professional organizations and InTASC. In addition, candidates may use Taskstream supports to develop a showcase portfolio for future job searches.

Certification

To obtain initial teacher certification, candidates must complete the requirements (ie. SAVE, DASA, Child Abuse) and pass the examinations required by the New York State Education Department.
